Attitudinal Barriers for Persons with Disabilities: From Education to Travel

Dr. Rupa Chandrashekar

Thursday, October 16, 2014

12:00 P.M. to 1:15 P.M.

Terrace Dining Room

Dr. Rupa Chandrashekar has a Ph.D. in Rehabilitation from Southern Illinois University in Carbondale.

She has been a part-time instructor here at John A. Logan College for seven years. She currently teaches General Psychology.

Although teaching is her passion, Rupa has also done research work with individuals who have suffered head injuries within our own district and also in the St. Louis, Mo. area. Her research work focuses on the grieving process that people with head injuries go through.

Dr. Chandrashekar will also talk about her experiences in accessibility with regards to using a wheelchair. In addition, she will touch on her widespread travels and the challenges of accessibility issues she has faced in other cultures.
