What is the Ombud? The Ombud helps students and employees work through student conflicts, complaints, or concerns. As a trusted advisor the Ombud is:

CONFIDENTIAL. The Ombud protects the identity of all parties and information they share. The only exception is an imminent risk of serious harm.

IMPARTIAL. The Ombud does not take sides and instead works to develop options to address or surface issues that support empowerment and fair process — for those seeking assistance and for the College.

INFORMAL. Visiting the Ombud does not initiate a formal investigation and speaking with the ombud is always off-the-record.

INDEPENDENT. The Ombud does not represent students, employees, or management. The Ombud reports issue trends in anonymous, aggregated form to the College President.

What other resources are available? These tools are available on the Ombud webpage (scan QR code above):

STUDENT CONCERN/COMMENT FORM. Named and anonymous submissions are accepted, but they are not confidential. Comments are routed to the office, committee, or employee who most closely works with the issue.

STUDENT GUIDEBOOK. The College's student handbook details rules, rights, and responsibilities pertaining to students, including formal complaint procedures.
